

Charcoal is essentially pure carbon, and the terms “activated carbon” and “activated charcoal” are used interchangeably.

While coal comes from plant matter that loses its noncarbon components over a long time because of pressure and heat deep in the earth, charcoal is made quickly, by heating wood in the absence of oxygen. This leads to a charring (without burning the carbon into carbon dioxide), which drives off most everything except carbon. The process is done on a scale of hours, rather than the millions of years for coal.
